Public Doctrine — 2025 Edition

Living Line Archives — Mi ’ kma ’ ki Restoration Framework

A 7-Pillar Framework for Restoring Family Origins and Correcting Historical Misclassification

The Living Line Method™ is the public-facing doctrine of a deeper restoration framework — designed to correct misclassification, reconstruct family origins, and return displaced identities to their rightful historical context. This is the simplified edition for general understanding, community education, and public reference.

PILLAR I — The Original Placement Principle™

Families existed in specific districts, villages, and micro-communities long before racial labels changed. The Living Line begins by locating where your people lived, who they clustered beside, and which surnames repeated through districts.

“ Before they changed the labels, we find where your people actually stood. ”

PILLAR II — The Surname Continuity Rule™

A surname ’ s path over time tells the story that the records tried to hide. Most families were relabeled — not replaced.

“ Follow the name, and you follow the bloodline. ”

PILLAR III — The Reclassification Timeline™

Communities were deliberately shifted through labels like ‘ Indian, ’ ‘ mulatto, ’ ‘ coloured, ’ and eventually ‘ Black. ’

“ You weren ’ t turned into something else. They changed the paperwork. ”

PILLAR IV — The District Pattern Test™

True heritage shows up in the land patterns — not the labels.

“ Your people ’ s land pattern reveals their identity. ”

PILLAR V — The Multi-Root Heritage Principle™

Families were multi-rooted, tied to multiple Indigenous and early-settled communities.

“ Your family is older and more complex than the categories suggest. ”

PILLAR VI — The Proof Pack Standard™

Every restored lineage must be backed by transparent, readable proof — not speculation.

“ We show you exactly how we know what we know. ”

PILLAR VII — The Ancestral Restoration Outcome™

The goal is not DNA or ethnicity — it is restoring rightful identity and family continuity.

“ We restore the story — not the stereotype. ”
