Restoration Brief — Nova Scotia (Unresolved Continuity)

Prepared by: Living Line Institute Status: Reference Instrument Version: 1.0 Basis: DOI-deposited Continuity File

1. Purpose

This brief consolidates evidence of unresolved continuity into a single restoration-ready instrument addressing:

- Land access
- Material restitution
- Jurisdictional correction

It does not assert identity, recognition, or sovereignty claims. It documents conditions requiring correction.

2. Foundational Condition

Records demonstrate that certain populations in Nova Scotia:

- Were present prior to formal land administration
- Remained during survey, grant, and boundary enforcement
- Persist after classification regimes
- Were neither removed, enrolled, nor compensated

This condition constitutes unresolved continuity.

3. Land Access Condition

Land was:

- surveyed
- subdivided
- granted
- regulated

while continuity populations:

- remained in place
- lost access through administration
- were not party to transfer or resolution

Restoration requirement: Minimum corrective action is land access restoration (use, entry, stewardship), independent of ownership claims.

4. Material Restitution Condition

Public and private benefit has been derived from:

- land use
- resource extraction
- infrastructure development

without documented compensation to unresolved continuity populations.

Restoration requirement: Material restitution mechanisms are required where enrichment occurred without settlement.

5. Jurisdictional Defect

Administrative authority was imposed through:

- county or municipal boundaries
- land registries
- enforcement regimes

without resolving all resident populations.

Result: A jurisdictional defect exists where governance operates over unresolved presence.

Restoration requirement: Correction through accommodation, access agreements, or restitution-based settlement.

6. Restoration Principle

Restoration proceeds from recorded continuity, not recognition.

Recognition is an administrative status. Restoration is a corrective obligation.

7. Status of This Brief

This brief is:

- derived from deposited reference material
- citation-ready
- institution-facing
- non-polemical

It exists to precede enforcement, not announce it.

8. Closing Statement

Where continuity predates administration and remains unresolved, restoration is required to correct the record
